

Media

Lauren Kennedy
201-641-1911x14
lkennedy@cpronline.com

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Foundation for Chiropractic Progress Participates at the 2013 American Occupational Health Conference

CARMICHAEL, Calif. – April 26, 2013 -- The Foundation for Chiropractic Progress (F4CP), a not-for-profit organization dedicated to advancing public awareness of chiropractic care, will for the first time attend and exhibit at the annual American Occupational Health Conference \(AOHC\), April 28 - May 1, 2013, in Orlando, Fla. Sponsored by the American College of Occupational and Environmental Medicine, an organization of occupational health professionals who champion the health and safety of workers, workplaces and environments, AOHC provides the F4CP with an opportunity to educate leading healthcare professionals about the role of and research related to the chiropractic profession.

“Doctors of chiropractic provide a conservative, patient-centered approach that is well-documented for its clinical and economic value,” states Gerard Clum, D.C., spokesperson, F4CP, adding that prestigious organizations, including Mercer Health and Benefits and the Center for Health Value Innovation, are among many to have reported positive chiropractic conclusions. “When included as members of occupational health teams, doctors of chiropractic can facilitate and drive reduced costs and better clinical outcomes, as well as improvements in safety, general health and communication.”

AOHC is recognized as the premier meeting for physicians and other health professionals who have an interest in the field of occupational and environmental medicine (OEM). Each year it provides an attractive balance of educational programs, networking activities and mentoring sessions. In 2013, special emphasis will be placed on the future role of OEM as emerging trends and the Affordable Care Act alter healthcare.

“In order to maximize efficiency and flourish under new healthcare regulations, OEM will need to utilize providers known to drive value -- such as doctors of chiropractic,” states Dr. Clum. “Presence at this event represents another step forward, and will prompt dialogue around the role of chiropractic in up-and-coming care models that will need to be preventive and outcomes-oriented.”

To learn more about the American Occupational Health Conference, visit: www.acoem.org/aohc.aspx.

About The Foundation for Chiropractic Progress

A not-for-profit organization, the Foundation for Chiropractic Progress informs and educates the general public about the many benefits associated with chiropractic care. To learn more about the Foundation, please visit us on the web at www.yes2chiropractic.com or call 866-901-F4CP (3427).

###