I TRUST CHIROPRACTIC CARE

After watching several of my military buddies get chiropractic care, I became interested in what a Chiropractic Doctor could do for my chronic neck and shoulder pain.

My trust was firmly established after receiving several “chiropractic adjustments” and expert healthy living advice. Chiropractic care helped me to feel much better without relying on pills or shots. I am grateful to the Doctors of Chiropractic nationwide who are part of the Patriot Project - www.patriot-project.org - founded by Dr. Tim Novelli.

Chiropractors embrace the motto “Serving those who Serve” and provide health care to active duty military and their families.

Today's chiropractor has a minimum of seven years of higher level education.
