DOCTORS OF CHIROPRACTIC EARN A MINIMUM OF SEVEN YEARS OF HIGHER EDUCATION

EDUCATION

Doctors of chiropractic earn a minimum of seven years of higher education, including coursework in clinical patient management.

COMPREHENSIVE TRAINING

Doctors of chiropractic are not only trained in addressing conditions of the spine, but they are also formally educated in clinical examination and diagnosis of the human body, with a focus on conservative health care interventions for the well-being of the whole person.

CHIROPRACTIC PROGRAMS

There are 18 programs in the U.S. offering the Doctor of Chiropractic degree – all accredited by the federally recognized Council on Chiropractic Education (CCE).

NewsUSA

(NU) - Sponsored News - There's probably more than three, but the biggie may be this: It takes a minimum of seven years of higher education – including clinical patient management – to become a doctor of chiropractic. And as the not-for-profit Foundation for Chiropractic Progress notes, the required coursework includes everything from spinal analysis to nutrition to basic sciences like neurology. And, yes, ethics too.
