

Phone 703/734-6300

Client ID#:	Story ID#:
-------------	------------

THIS IS A DRAFT OF YOUR FEATURE.
Please indicate changes on this sheet and e-mail with specific instructions. Please do not send unmarked edits in Microsoft Word.

TO APPROVE THIS DRAFT FOR PUBLICATION:

• Review all copy for accuracy.
Give particular attention to proper nouns (especially names and titles), phone numbers, mailing addresses and Web sites.

(NU) - Sponsored News - has been added to every story to protect you and us from potential claims of failure to disclose sponsored news content under Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) Act, as per guidelines made official 12/22/15.

By approving this feature, you agree to hold harmless and defend NewsUSA from its content and publication.

* IF YOUR DRAFT IS MISSING A PHOTO, DO NOT SIGN OFF UNTIL IT HAS BEEN PLACED IN THE STORY.

If you are completely satisfied with this version, sign and return by email to bethridge@newsusa.com.

Copy produced by NewsUSA is copyright-free and may be freely used.

X _____

SIGNATURE & DATE (OK to publish) Signature anywhere on this draft gives NewsUSA permission to proceed with distribution "as is." Don't sign with edits.

Questions? Contact Brian Ethridge at 703-462-2050 or bethridge@newsusa.com.

Twitter templates

Patients Find Comfort With Chiropractors (Story URL)

How Well Do You Know Your Chiropractor? (Story URL)

Doctors of Chiropractic Have Seven Years of Higher Education (Story URL)

The above Tweets will link to the story to the right.

NewsUSA Social Syndication

Title: What You Don't Know About Your Chiropractor
Title Tag: Education and Training Are All Part of the Job for Chiropractors
Meta Description: If you're considering chiropractic care, it should be of comfort to know that doctors of chiropractic have a minimum of seven years of higher education.

Content: When you see a degree framed on the wall of any professional organization that you're visiting, there's no mistaking a sense of comfort.

Well, the next time you consult a doctor of chiropractic, you won't be disappointed. Get ready to feel comforted.

That's because his or her degree speaks to the rigorous training — a minimum of seven years of higher education, including clinical patient management — that doctors of chiropractic must complete. Not everyone, however, realizes just what that education means in terms of better health outcomes for patients.

"Doctors of chiropractic are not only trained in problems dealing with the spine, but are formally educated in clinical examination and diagnosis — with a focus on conservative health care interventions for the well-being of the whole person," explains Sherry McAllister, DC, executive vice president of the not-for-profit Foundation for Chiropractic Progress.

Among the required coursework:

- Basic sciences of anatomy, physiology, neurology, biomechanics, microbiology and pathology.
- Ethics and integrity.
- Clinical sciences, including nutrition, rehabilitation, and therapeutic procedures.
- Research methodology.

The Council on Chiropractic Education is recognized by the U.S. Department of Education as the accrediting agency for schools' educational and clinical programs leading to the award of a Doctor of Chiropractic degree. Today, there are 18 chiropractic programs in the U.S., which all require passing state and national board examinations for licensure. ♦The National Board of Chiropractic Examiners (NBCE)♦ <http://www.nbce.org/> develops, administers and scores the exams.

"They must also serve a rigorous clinical internship," explains Dr. McAllister.

Learn more at F4CP.com.

Keywords: chiropractors, chiropractic care, Sherry McAllister, Foundation for Chiropractic Progress, education, National Board of Chiropractic Examiners

 Text within two ♦ represents anchor text that will be linked to the web address that follows. ***